591-1-1-.16 Governing Body and Licenses.

Each center shall have a clearly identified governing body which shall be empowered and responsible for determining all policies and procedures and ensuring compliance with these rules and regulations. The chairperson or chief executive officer of the governing body shall complete a statement of responsibility on behalf of the governing body acknowledging the same in connection with any application for license on a form provided by the Department. If the center is individually owned, then the owner(s) will complete the statement of responsibility.

(a) License. No person shall operate a child care learning center without a license. A separate license is required for each address or location at which a center is proposed to be operated even when all of the proposed centers are owned by the same person or entity. A separate license is also required for each center operated at a single location by the same governing body.

1. Temporary License. The Department may at its discretion issue a temporary license if the health and safety of the children to be served by the center will not be endangered. A temporary license will be valid for a specified period not to exceed one (1) year and may be issued when the day care center is not in full compliance with these rules but has demonstrated satisfactory evidence that it is making progress toward meeting these rules and has submitted an acceptable plan of correction.

2. Restricted License. The Department may at its discretion issue a restricted license in lieu of a temporary or regular license. The restricted license may be granted either in connection with the initial application process for a license or as a result of a subsequent determination made by the Department concerning compliance with these rules. The restriction shall appear on the face of the license and shall restrict a center from providing care or services which are beyond the capability of the licensee to provide. The restriction may also limit the number and/or age of the children served by the center.

3. Regular License. A license will be issued upon presentation of evidence satisfactory to the Department that the center is in compliance with applicable statutes and these rules. The license is valid for one year unless voluntarily surrendered by the holder, reduced to a restricted or temporary license or suspended or revoked by the Department.

4. Qualification Requirement. In order to obtain or retain a license, the director of the center and its employees must be qualified as defined in these rules to administer or work in a center. The Department may presume that the director and center employees are qualified subject to satisfactory determinations on the criminal records checks. However, the Department may require additional reasonable verification of the qualifications of the director and center employees either at the time of application for a license or at any time during the license period whenever the Department has reason to believe that a director or center employee is not qualified under these rules to administer or work in a day care center. Reasonable verification which may be required by the Department may include, but need not be limited to, any or all of the following: statement(s) from an attending physician or other health care professionals attesting to the mental and/or physical health of the applicant and/or staff member; letters of reference from designated persons in the community where the applicant and/or staff member intends to work or is working; certified copies of court orders and additional criminal records checks.

(b) License is Non-transferable. A license to operate a day care center is not transferable in any way. Each license shall be returned to the Department immediately upon the expiration, suspension, revocation, restriction of the license or termination of the operation.

(c) Amended License. If there is a change in the name of the program or center, changes in the ages of the children to be served, an increase in the regular hours of operation such that the center would be providing evening or night-time care in addition to day-time care, changes in the services provided, additions to or changes in the use of the building by the licensed center, an application for an amended license shall be submitted at least thirty (30) days prior to the change, except in the case of an emergency. If an emergency situation arises which makes it impossible to give thirty (30) days notice, the management of the center shall notify the Department by telephone and shall submit an application for an amended license as soon as management becomes aware of the change that will be necessitated by the emergency situation. In no case, however, shall a new owner operate the day care center without first securing a new license from the Department.

(d) False or Misleading Information. The application for a license, including the application for a criminal records check, must be truthfully and fully completed. In the event that the Department has reason to believe that the application has not been completed truthfully, it may require additional verification of the facts alleged. The Department may refuse to issue a license where false statements have been made in connection with the application or any other documents required by the Department.

Exhibit A: STANDARDS OF CARE: Birth to 12 Months of Age

	Developmental Characteristics	Goals - Brain Development	Suggested Activities/Materials
Cognitive	Children learn through 5 senses, actively use hands to explore environment, infants will actively explore their environment when they feel secure, develop object permanence (knows objects exist out of sight and will search for them), begin to be aware of cause-effect relationships.	Children learn cause-effect relationships. Use of positive responses by adults when infants seek out and perform new skill will help infants gain self-confidence in their ability to learn. Children realize that out of sight objects exist.	Caregivers should provide times for children to play with toys and rattles, play peek-a-boo and hide and seek, and play on the floor. Musical toys, classical music, books, squeeze toys and rattles that have sound and visual effects with a variety of textures are examples of suggested materials.
Social Emotional	Children develop attachments, trust, learn to smile socially, recognize familiar people and their own self in mirrors. Children will explore their environment in the presence of caregivers.	Children become socially competent individuals. When a child's needs are met consistently, trust, love, and security develops. Children develop and maintain a trusting relationship with the same primary caregivers.	Caregivers should hug, cuddle and rock children often, especially to soothe and calm a fussy baby. Caregivers should refer to children by their name, and talk to them often. Voice tone and volume should be nurturing and encouraging. Mirrors, washable stuffed animals, soft dolls, and puppets should be available for the children.
Communication	Children communicate through crying, coo, gurgles, babbles, squeals, laughs, facial expressions, and respond to human voices. Infants will also imitate the sounds of others.	Children develop self-confidence as they learn to communicate their needs. Two-way communication teaches children that words have meanings and people will respond to their sounds.	Caregivers should talk, sing, read, and name objects on a daily basis. Cardboard picture books, variety of musical tapes, and puppets are example of suggested materials.
Physical	Children have innate reflexes (sucking, grasping), progress from lying on stomach with head raised to sitting alone, develop pincer grasp, reach, learn to transfer things from one hand to the other, learn to crawl, scoot and/or walk.	Children become aware of their own bodies in the environment and develop fine and gross motor skills.	Caregivers should encourage and facilitate fine and gross motor skills. Grasping toys, rattles, teething rings, play gyms, vinyl mats, push and pull toys, and riding equipment are examples of suggested materials.
Self Help	Children's needs are met by caregivers. Begin to encourage older infants to feed themselves and drink from a cup.	Children develop trust and security as needs are met on a regular basis. Older infants develop self-esteem and independence.	Caregivers should meet the needs (feeding, diapering, sleeping, and nurturing) of individual infants on a consistent basis. Provide finger foods and cups with tops to encourage self feeding when age appropriate.

Environment: The infant room should contain 4 basic areas: a sleeping area with cribs labeled for each child; a diaper changing area; an eating area with a place for younger infants to be held and older infants to sit; and a play area with materials/activities listed above to meet the needs of infants at many different stages of development. Infants should be taken outside on a daily basis weather permitting and according to the parent's instructions. The outdoor environment should include areas of shade and sun, grass, concrete, and resilient ground cover, and may include a garden. In addition to the materials listed above, infant swings, low/soft climbing structures, and a play area with toys can be included. All activities and settings in the child care center will operate under strict supervision to ensure the safety of the children and in accordance with licensing rules and regulations. Individual attention and responsive care giving by the same individual are critical to future development.

Exhibit B: STANDARDS OF CARE: 12 to 24 Months of Age

	Developmental Characteristics	Goals-Brain Development	Suggested Activities/Materials
Cognitive	Children can follow simple directions, name familiar objects, understand relationships between objects, clearly see cause-effect relationships, and have an increasing desire to explore and experiment.	Children's explorations become increasingly purposeful to find meaning in events, objects, and words as they attempt to discover how the world works. They begin to understand the concept of parts and wholes.	Caregivers should allow children to explore the environment while supervising and encouraging their play. Books, classical music, pattern-making materials, matching manipulatives, interlocking toys that can be taken apart and put back together are examples of materials. Introduce sand and water play and other sensory activities. Provide multiples of popular toys and materials so children will not have to wait.
Social Emotional	Children experience stranger anxiety, look for caregivers response in uncertain situations, express affection for others, imitate others behaviors, engage more in parallel play and simple interaction with others, test limits, strive for independence, and are egocentric.	Children develop identity and a sense of self. They also realize they are separate individuals from caregivers and environment.	Caregivers should nurture children throughout the day both verbally and non-verbally. Caregivers should allow time for dramatic play. Examples of materials include books, play kitchen set, pots, pans, doll clothes, doll carriage, bottles, hats, dress up clothes, and a full length mirror.
Communication	Children progress from saying first words to speaking in simple sentences. They also point to and name objects, play with sounds, ask questions, imitate others' speech, and by 24 months have a vocabulary of 24-50 words.	Children learn to communicate their needs, learn that words have meaning and power, learn the importance of written words, and develop a vocabulary.	Caregivers should expand on children's words, maintain eye contact, read, sing, and use gestures as well as words to communicate. Books, nursery rhymes, records, tapes, puppets, and flannel board stories are examples of suggested materials.
Physical	Children walk backwards, run, dance, turn the pages of a book one at a time, build block towers, push, pull, throw, empty, fill, open, shut, squeeze, poke, and drop toys.	Children are learning as they discover through physical development. Self-confidence develops as motor skills become better. Children enjoy repetition, such as dumping and filling. Eye-hand coordination is developing.	Caregivers should allow time for children to walk, climb, run, jump, dance, etc., and play with manipulatives that will enhance fine motor skills. Examples of materials include books, puzzles, blocks, stacking cubes and containers, nesting cups, lacing and stringing materials, musical instruments, wagons, push and pull toys, balls, finger paint, large markers, crayons, and paint brushes.
Self Help	Children are still working on feeding themselves with a fork and spoon and drinking from a cup. They can finger feed with ease.	Children develop self-esteem, independence, and a positive attitude on feeding themselves, as well as fine motor skills.	Caregivers should allow children to feed themselves and select foods, and should sit with children during meals and encourage conversation. Provide child size eating utensils and cups with lids.

Environment: The set-up of rooms should be arranged so caregivers see all parts of the rooms. The toddler classroom should contain a sleeping area (older toddlers may use mats); a diapering area as well as a bathroom for children; an eating area; and a play area. The play area should be divided into basic areas such as books, manipulatives/blocks, dramatic play, gross motor, and art. Materials and equipment should be accessible to children as appropriate. The outdoor environment should include areas of shade and sun, grass, concrete, and resilient ground cover, and may include a garden. In addition to the materials listed above, infant swings low climbing structures, and a sand box with toys can be included. All activities and settings in the child care center will operate under strict supervision to ensure the safety of the children in accordance with child care licensing rules and regulations. Individual attention and responsive care giving by the same individual are critical to future development.

Exhibit C: STANDARDS OF CARE: 24 - 36 Months of Age

	Developmental Characteristics	Goals - Brain Development	Suggested Activities/ Materials
Cognitive	Children respond to simple directions, begin to imitate adults, have a limited attention span, begin to sequence and match objects, identify objects and ask questions.	Children develop reasoning and problem solving skills. Children begin to think for themselves, problems begin to be worked out mentally rather than by use of trial and error, creativity and logical thinking are expanded.	Caregivers should let children attempt to work out problems on their own, create, and explore. Suggested materials include books, large pegs to group, sort, and stack, large crayons, markers, paints, paint brushes, paper, and classical music.
Social/Emotional	Children are protective of their possessions, want to be independent, are self-centered, they play near and watch other children, occasionally joining in play with others, and they begin to engage in imaginative and dramatic play. They say no often.	Children develop social skills (getting along with others).	Caregivers should encourage cooperative and individual learning opportunities (sharing and taking turns) as well as creative expression. (But Twos do not do this well.) Provide opportunities for dramatic play with simple themes and props such as doctor's office or restaurant. Caregivers should allow children to make choices on activities. Multiples of some popular toys and materials should be available.
Communication	Children should engage and be encouraged to begin to use language more in play, ask names of things, make negative statements, and increase their vocabulary.	Children develop fine motor skills and reading and readiness skills (turning pages left to right) Vocabulary, memory, and Speech are increased by labeling items in books and asking questions.	Caregivers should talk clearly to children using simple positive statements and allow children to respond back (two-way communication), expose children to the written word through a variety of literacy based materials, and sing throughout the day. Caregivers should allow children to make choices on activities. Caregivers should bend, kneel, or sit down to establish eye contact when talking with children. Examples of materials include picture books and short story books with repetition and rhymes, poems, and finger plays. Reading areas should be cozy and inviting for children and include pillows, puppets, stuffed animals, flannel board, etc. Materials, equipment, and real objects should be labeled.
Physical	Children of this age walk upstairs 2 feet on a step, sit on riding toys and push with feet, hop in place and jump from low heights, climb, run, throw objects using forearms, and are increasing fine motor development.	Children develop eye-hand coordination, prewriting skills, large muscle skills, and strengthen fine motor skills and increase gross motor skills.	Caregivers should allow children to run, throw, catch, jump, climb, ride on riding toys and make choices on activities. Low climbing structures, riding toys, balls, modeling clay, blocks, puzzles and books are examples of suggested materials.
Self Help	Children can feed themselves, wash and dry their hands with assistance, and are beginning to be or are toilet trained.	Children develop positive self-esteem, independence, fine motor skills, and one to one correspondence. Children also learn to count objects and follow simple directions (cognitive).	Caregivers should allow children to serve themselves and help set the table, and should sit with children during meals and encourage conversation. Provide soap and paper towels for children, as well as child size utensils.

Environment: The set up of the rooms should be arranged so caregivers see all parts of the rooms. The classroom for this age group should contain a diapering area and a bathroom for the children; an eating area; and a play area divided into centers such as books, manipulatives, sand and water, blocks, dramatic play, large motor, music, and art. Materials and equipment should be on the children's developmental levels. The outdoor area should have areas of shade and sun, grass, concrete, and resilient ground cover, and may include a garden. In addition to the materials listed above, swings, low climbing structures, playhouse, and a sand box with toys can be included. All activities and settings in the child care center will operate under strict supervision to ensure the safety of the children in accordance with child care licensing rules and regulations. Children are able to symbolically represent objects, they focus on one aspect of a situation, and reason from particular to particular.	Caregivers should provide opportunities for children to sort and classify objects. Books, construction materials, pattern making manipulatives, puzzles, musical instruments, music and simple games are examples of suggested materials.
Social/Emotional	Children have difficulty sharing and taking turns, are beginning to show self-control, need help resolving conflicts, express sympathy, enjoy humor, begin to get bossy but also learn to play cooperatively, want to please adults, show aggression, and love living things.	Children's peers become increasingly important, and they need to develop a positive self-concept.	Caregivers should support children's self-concept and positive self-esteem and help them develop a sense of self. They should also provide opportunities for children to play and work together. Caregivers should allow children to make choices on activities. Activities should be provided that allow children to negotiate social conflicts (dramatic play, blocks, books).
Communication	Children state 3-4 word sentences, can follow 2-3 simple directions at a time, can give simple accounts of their day! experiences, can say own name, begins to use plurals, have difficulty taking turns in conversation, and enjoy finger plays, rhymes, and songs with repetition.	Children develop the ability to think out loud and talk themselves through situations. They can represent their thoughts and feelings verbally.	Caregivers should converse with children frequently, listen carefully to them, read to and sing daily, and provide a variety of settings for language use. Caregivers should bend, kneel, or sit down to establish eye contact when talking with children. Caregivers should allow children to make choices on activities. Dramatic play themes, book corners and writing utensils and paper placed throughout the room, stamps and stamp pads, puzzles, magazines, and chalk boards are examples of some activities. Caregivers should provide equipment that varies in skills level, prepare open ended activities with ample time for children to work. Caregivers should also offer encouragement to children. Caregivers should allow children to make choices on activities. Activities and materials include drawing, painting legos, clay, pegs and peg boards, scissors and paper, tricycles, tires, hoops, balance beam, parachute, ring toss, hollow blocks, nature walks, and music for dancing.

Children continue to perfect fine and gross motor skills and develop competence and confidence in their abilities.
Self Help	Children can button and unbutton, zip and unzip, set the table and serve themselves.	Children develop self-confidence as they are able to do things for themselves.	Caregivers should allow children to help set the table and serve themselves, and should sit with children during meals and encourage conversation.
